Special Issue – Author Guidelines

Focus

The Student Success Journal (SSJ) is an international, open-access, peer-reviewed, scholarly publication exploring the experiences of students in tertiary education.

This journal provides the opportunity to disseminate current research and innovative good practice about students' tertiary learning experiences, which are supported by evidence. Researchers, tertiary and university teachers and educators and professional staff who are advancing student learning, success and retention are encouraged to submit.

Special issues focus on critical issues in tertiary education and are hosted by guest editors who work with the Student Success editorial team to select suitable submissions for the issue.

The journal themes align with the STARS ethos (Students, Transitions, Achievement, Retention and Success):

Students – Who are they? What are their needs? What works for different cohorts? Strategies for broader social inclusion and increasing participation in tertiary education; participation of first nation peoples

Transitions – Pathways to tertiary education, transitions into (the first year experience), during (work integrated learning) and from tertiary education, including graduate employability and capstone experiences

Achievement – Strategies promoting student achievement including curricular and co-curricular reform, employability, gamification and simulation enhanced learning

Retention – Program, discipline, whole of institution, inter-institutional and sector collaborations designed to improve student retention, threshold skills and concepts

Success – Student engagement, technology enhanced learning, understanding students expectations and realities, psychological wellbeing, application of learning analytics

Submission Types

Articles – should have a strong empirical or theoretical foundation and present new knowledge or findings, or report on the application of existing knowledge to a new domain. Articles that focus on discipline-specific initiatives should clearly identify elements that are transferrable to other domains or how the specific initiative makes a contribution to the broader knowledge base. Full papers are required at the time of submission and if accepted by the editorial team will undergo a double, blind peer review. Refereed papers should not exceed twelve (12) pages including title, abstract, body and references.

One copy of the article should be submitted:

An anonymous version where all information identifying the author(s) has been removed to allow it to be sent to reviewers.

As a supplementary file, please also submit a one-page summary document containing title, author/s, affiliation/s and abstract (this is for internal purposes only)

Practice Reports - should report on practical initiatives or the early outcomes of research projects. They are an opportunity to focus on the applied aspects of Student Success initiatives and innovations. Although a comprehensive literature analysis is not required, it is crucial that Practice Reports clearly show how the topic relates to or builds on existing knowledge and practice. Practice Reports should explain why it was done, what was done, how it was done, and the impact (or expected impact) of the initiative. Importantly, Practice Reports require authors to identify the connection with transferable themes and principles of practice into other contexts.

Practice Reports should not exceed seven (7) pages including title, author details, abstract, body and references.

One copy of the article should be submitted. It does not need to be anonymous as it is reviewed by the guest editors.

Quality Expectations

All submissions must:

- Align with the special issue theme/s;
- Refer to previous relevant published works;
- Be of a high professional standard;
- Be proof-read and publication ready;
- Comply with these format guidelines.

Submissions that do not meet these initial requirements will be returned to authors for correction before being sent for review by the guest editors.

Review Criteria – Articles

For refereed papers, Student Success places emphasis on quality research, which the Journal takes to be:

- Aligns to the subject area of the special issue;
- a substantial scholarly activity, as evidenced by discussion of the relevant literature, an awareness of the history and antecedents of work described provided in a format which allows a reader to trace sources of the work through citations;
- original (that is, more than merely a compilation of existing works);
- a contribution to knowledge; and
- in a form that enables dissemination of knowledge.

The following descriptors articulate expectations of papers that meet the definition of a research publication. These descriptors provide a useful framework for authors to consider:

1. Provides an analysis and synthesis of the relevant and informing literature.
2. A literature review that ends with a description of ‘gap’ or ‘issue’ that is being addressed. This statement leads the reader to conclude that the research which follows ‘addresses’ or ‘fills’ the gap(s) i.e. the research will make a contribution in an under-researched area or applies known models / framework or techniques in a new and unique way to reveal something that is not (yet) known about the particular research field.
3. Provides a clear description of the study, that is, the (research) methodology / approach that was adopted to gather data. The method selected should be appropriate for the issue being investigated.
4. A clear report of the findings or results organised conceptually or logically.

5. A discussion of the findings in light of the literature (that is, sets out the extent the research has 'filled the gaps').
6. Makes suggestions for possible future research (these will emerge from the clearly stated limitations of the study).
7. Leaves the readers with a 'message', that is, something that others can take from the work, and apply to their own practice in some way.
